

CAMP CROWDER

Pigeon Breeding and Training Center:

The Pigeon Breeding and Training Center, Camp Crowder, Missouri, was activated on August 1, 1942, the personnel being transferred here from Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

This activity replaces, with the exception of a small detachment left at Fort Monmouth, the Pigeon Breeding and Training Center that has been in existence at Fort Monmouth for the past twenty-five years.

Captain C. A. Poutre, commanding the Pigeon Breeding and Training Center, has already started the enlisted cadre on an extensive training program.
